Los Angeles Mission College is currently located on 33 acres in the community of Sylmar, close to the city of San Fernando in the Northeast San Fernando Valley. The College was established in 1975 and for its first 16 years offered classes in scattered storefronts and leased facilities throughout the city of San Fernando and surrounding communities including Granada Hills, Lake View Terrace, Pacoima, Sepulveda, Sylmar, Sun Valley, Sunland, Tujunga, and Mission Hills. The College also served students from neighboring communities such as North Hollywood, Panorama City, Van Nuys, and Burbank. Northeast San Fernando communities have many hardships with low educational attainment, low income, high unemployment and under employment, and a majority of students who are first-generation college students.

In 1991 the new permanent campus was completed on a 22-acre site in Sylmar and the College experienced a surge in enrollments and a resulting higher visibility in the community. In 2007 the College acquired 11 additional acres, which expanded its footprint to its existing size. From humble storefront beginnings in 1975 to today's modern campus, the College has opened the doors to higher education for generations of students. From the beginning, the College has sought to unleash the potential of the community through innovative programs encouraging academic and personal growth.

The College provides lower-division general education, associate degree programs, Career Technical Education, certificates, transfer education, basic skills and developmental education, noncredit instruction, counseling, and community services and education. Over the past 37 years, the College has offered numerous workforce development programs, empowered immigrants through language and citizenship programs, enabled thousands to transition through the continuum of education linking high school, college, and the workforce, and graduated many of today's community leaders in business and civic affairs.

During its 37-year existence, over 234,000 students have chosen to pursue their education at the College. More and more students with ever-changing needs pursue knowledge and personal growth through the College's many responsive educational programs. Los Angeles Mission College strives to stimulate the intellectual, social, and economic development of individual students and the community through new and challenging programs; utilizes the latest technology to enable student access to skills and knowledge they need for success; encourages young people to pursue their potential with classes taught in area high schools; supports growth programs with numerous community events and business seminars; promotes lifelong learning through classes offered in community locations; and advocates social and economic development in the community through dynamic partnerships with local businesses and civic organizations.

In 2001, 2003, and again in 2008, voters approved three separate bond measures—Proposition A, Proposition AA, and Measure J—designed to help the nine Los Angeles Community College District campuses expand and improve aging facilities. Los Angeles Mission College adheres to its Facilities Master Plan to address the needs of a growing student population. Since the last Accreditation Self Study in 2007, the College has completed the construction of the Center for Child Development Studies; the Health, Fitness, and Athletics Complex; the Culinary Arts Institute and Eagles' Landing Student Store; and the Center for Math and Science. In addition, construction of the Media Arts Center is approximately 30 percent complete.
